Latest guide will help you find an ideal spot for a ‘sea change’

Secure and affordable housing in convenient and ideal locations is all that can be found and more in the latest edition of the Manufactured Home Villages NSW guide released today by the Manufactured Housing Industry Association of NSW (MHIA).

The Manufactured Home Villages NSW is a guide to living in ma manufactured home communities across NSW with a wealth of information on the manufactured home village lifestyle through to purchasing tips and hints.

Barry Baillie, CEO of MHIA says that this guide explains manufactured homes and the community living in an easy and informative fashion to provide all the information people need on this lifestyle in one publication.

“Manufactured home communities offer a range of benefits including safe and secure environments for residents and villages are often located conveniently close to shops and townships.”

“The main benefit of manufactured home living is that you own your own home and lease the land from the village so there is no need to pay council fees.”

“Many people also find that living in a manufactured home village is more affordable as they downsize from a suburban home with grass to mow every weekend and other general chores, into a manufactured home community where communal gardens and common areas are kept by grounds staff. In many cases, there are also staff on call 24 hours for residents if required,” Mr Baillie commented.

“Dotted across NSW, the Manufactured Home Villages NSW guide details the facilities and contact details for close to 100 manufactured home villages around the state in addition to industry suppliers such as manufactured home builders,” said Mr Baillie.

“We have also launched a new website, www.villagesnsw.com.au, which is a useful resource for those researching manufactured home village living.”

“The website provides a range of information as well as updates on relevant events and news for manufactured home living. There is also free bi-monthly e-Newsletter which consumers can subscribe to via the website.”

The MHIA NSW Guide is a free publication available and can be ordered via www.villagesnsw.com.au.
